This case isn't isolated. It's part of a disturbing pattern in Lexington, where law enforcement's blatant disregard for Black citizens' rights and well-being is systemic.

#ComechiaRandle's courage to stand against this injustice demands our support.

When he asked the officers why they were assaulting this young woman, the officers' actions became more violent and Leroy was forced to witness the young woman's continued assault before she was taken away in a cruiser.

The retaliation was swift and personal. Leroy's son was arrested under false charges. When Leroy confronted the police about his son's arrest, he became a target, facing false charges and excessive force that left him with lasting injuries.

There has been a calculated effort by the LPD to silence and punish Leroy for standing up against police brutality. The physical and psychological toll on Leroy and his family has been immense, with ongoing legal battles to fight the charges and seek justice.
